Caine & Weiner Joins Credit Research Foundation, will Exhibit at Forum & Expo

Los Angeles, CA—Caine & Weiner was appointed a member of the Credit Research Foundation (CRF), a community of Fortune 1500 executive and senior-level personnel uniquely focused on what is transpiring within the finance discipline across areas related to people, process and technology. Collection agency membership is restricted to a select number of agencies certified by the Commercial Collection Agencies of America (CCAA) or the Commercial Law League of America (CLLA).

The CRF Forum & Expo, August 12-14 in Seattle, will offer attendees an educational forum as well as a vendor expo featuring an exclusive array of the top solution and service providers in risk management.

Staying true to Caine & Weiner's mission statement of alliance with progressive companies who share our vision, Caine & Weiner will utilize the event to network, build relationships, and participate in workshops and seminars. Caine & Weiner will participate as an Exhibitor at Booth #17. The booth will offer information on proven Receivables-to-Cash strategies, specifically 1st and 3rd party commercial and consumer accounts receivable management services. The expo will provide the chance to display what sets Caine & Weiner apart and allow face-to-face interaction with other members of the industry.

The CRF Forum & Expo will offer compelling and relevant educational sessions for attendees, such as:

- Modern Valuation Models to Better Anticipate Customer Insolvency and Risk
- Robotic Process Automation – How, where and strategic advantages
- Blockchain/Cryptocurrency – Use in supporting contract needs
- Payment Process Update – For A/R and A/P
- Chapter 22s – Implications of flawed feasibility assessments
- Credit & Other Insurance Applications – Peer discussion on use and utility
- Customer Deductions – The new dynamics & what to know about supplier agreements
- Economic Update – The latest update from the Federal Reserve
- The CRF Open Forum – Real-time solutions to your pressing inquiries

"The Credit Research Foundation is highly regarded, and Caine & Weiner is proud to be invited to be a member of this prestigious organization," said Greg A. Cohen. "The upcoming expo will allow us to engage in a collaborative setting and build relationships that would not be possible otherwise, given today's fast-paced environment and daily time restrictions."

Representing Caine & Weiner at the Expo will be Joe Batie, Chief Commercial Officer, and Lisa Newberg, CBA, CCRA, Vice President – Client Services.

Caine & Weiner (www.caine-weiner.com) is celebrating 89 years of continuous service as a global provider of highly effective and results-oriented 1st and 3rd party commercial and consumer accounts receivable management services in support of the Receivables-to-Cash Cycle. To serve the domestic market, the global Los Angeles-based enterprise maintains a network of five full-service call centers strategically located throughout the U.S. Through their valued best-in-class international relationships, Caine & Weiner has established an international presence in over 90 countries. Caine & Weiner has supported U.S. and global commerce in Receivables-to-Cash management since their beginning in 1930 and is a founding member of the former Commercial Collection Agency Association (CCAA), and remains certified by the Commercial Law League of America (CLLA) which is endorsed by the International Association of Commercial Collectors (IACC). Caine & Weiner is also a sustaining member of the IACC, CLLA, and a longstanding member of the Association of Credit and Collection Professionals (ACA International), formerly the American Collectors Association. The company is also SOC 1 Type 2 Audited by The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA), and ISO 27001:2013 Certified by CompVisory. In addition to company certifications, John Myers, VP of Strategy & Planning, holds the Certified Receivables Management Compliance Professional (CRCP) certification from the Receivables Management Association International (RMAI), and Steve Simon, VP of Compliance and Quality Assurance, holds the Credit and Collection Compliance Officer (CCCO) certification from ACA International.
